“Our vineyards lie on land that hundreds of years ago was inhabited by the indigenous people of La Rioja, The Diaguitas. To honor their heritage and culture we have adopted the Puma, that in their culture represents the supreme earthly being for its wisdom, strength and intelligence.” – Valle de La Puerta

Winemaking:

Fermentation: Produced from carefully selected hand-picked grapes. After de-stemming and crushing, fermentation begins in a traditional manner with periodical pump-overs to ensure maximum extraction. Temperature is controlled at 24°C to guarantee the wine’s fruity character.

Aging: 30% of the wine is aged in French and American oak barrels and 70% in stainless steel tanks for 6 months which are then blended achieving great balance between the oak and the fruit.

Tasting notes:

Brilliant intense red color with violet highlights. Aromas full of red fruits, with hints of smoke that reflect its aging with oak. Complex on the palate, well-structured and full bodied with a lengthy finish. Its rounded tannins show their presence and give it a unique character.
